BOOKS RECENTLY ADDED TO THE LIBRARY

GENERAL

- ALLEN, SHIRLEY W. HANDBOOK ON INFORMATION ON ENTERING POSITIONS IN FORESTRY. Washington, D.C., Society of American Foresters, 1945. 36 p. 99.06 A152.
"This handbook is designed to supply informal descriptions of typical entering positions in the work of growing, managing, and utilizing forests, and to assist guidance officers and students themselves to become familiar with the nature and requirements of forestry as a profession or vocation." --Preface
- AMERICAN COUNCIL ON EDUCATION. STUDIES. Ser. 1, Vol. 8, no. 19. (Channeling research into education) 1944. 187 p. 275 AmS23.
"The findings of research studies in various fields of natural, physical, and social sciences have for many years been one of the great untapped reservoirs of instructional material for school and college. This document is a preliminary exploration of the field." --Foreword.
- CANTOR, H.F. EMPLOYEE COUNSELING, A NEW VIEWPOINT IN INDUSTRIAL PSYCHOLOGY. New York, McGraw-Hill, 1945. 167 p. 249.3 C162.
"The main purpose of this study is to make a contribution to the rapidly growing field of personnel counseling. It is broken into three parts: The problem, the approach, and the organization." --Preface.
- CHASE, STUART. MEN AT WORK; SOME DEMOCRATIC METHODS FOR THE POWER AGE. New York Harcourt, 1945. 146 p. 249.3 C38.
"This book is a series of true stories in which we see men working to make themselves masters rather than slaves of machines. The author shows us a lumber town rebuilding itself for steady employment and full production." --Book jacket.
- COOPER, JAMES B. POULTRY FOR HOME AND MARKET. Atlanta. Smith & Co., 1944. 481 p. 47 C782.
"This book is a guide to efficient poultry management. It has been planned on a job basis, and takes into consideration the methods used in vocational classes. Such an approach makes the book useful to any individual and all groups interested in the production and marketing of poultry." --Preface
- CUSHMAN, ELLA M. MANAGEMENT IN HOMES. New York, Macmillan, 1945. 285 p. 321 C95.
"This book deals with actual homes in which real people live. It contains stories of ambitions, obstacles, of struggles, and of achievements in the making and the improvement of these homes." --Preface

DEERING, FERDIE. USDA, MANAGER OF AMERICAN AGRICULTURE. Norman, University of Oklahoma press, 1945. 213 p. 281.12 D36.

"The job of the USDA is to see that American agriculture keeps 140 millions well fed, and to insure the agricultural population against the more formidable hazards of its free enterprise system. Relieved temporarily by boom conditions resulting from World War II, agriculture once again faces the long haul of peacetime production with all of the problems that become familiar to it between two wars. The author presents the value and faults of the department and comments on the plans most recently announced by the Secretary." Book jacket

FAIST, KENNETH L. JOB SAFETY TRAINING MANUAL. New York, National foreman's institute. 1945. 52 p. (Accompanied by opportunities for promotion through job safety training, by K.L. Faist and Stanton Newkirk. 20 p). 449 F17.

HARRIS, SEYMOUR EDWIN. PRICE AND RELATED CONTROLS IN THE UNITED STATES. New York McGraw-Hill, 1945. 392 p. 284.3 H24.

"Here is the first comprehensive study of controls in the American economy and of modern price controls, based on the experience of a price administrator, and particularly on his experience in fixing prices on exports and imports, integrating price policies with other controls. It deals primarily with price control, yet gives a good overall picture of wartime controls, and finally the future of controls and in particular the timing of the termination of controls." --Book jacket.

HUSTED, HELEN. A CHAIRMAN'S GUIDE. Pleasantville, N.Y. Reader's digest program service. 1944. 60 p. 145.2 H96.

LAGE, MILDRED M. THE USEFUL SOYBEAN. New York, McGraw-Hill, 1945. 295 p. 389.1 L13.

This is the story of the soybean, its history and its value nutritionally, and industrially. The soybean and soybean products are destined to be a vital plus factor in our worlds of tomorrow. Practical recipes for its use on the American menu are also given.

LARSON, GUSTAV E. WHAT IS FARMING? New York, Van Nostrand Co., 1945. 410 p. 31.3 L32.

This is a clear, complete, authoritative handbook of farming in the United States.

NATIONAL CONSERVATION POLICY CONFERENCE. Washington, D.C., 1944. 107 p. 279.9 N216.

"A post war conservation conference. Held for the purpose of ascertaining and discussing the land, water and wildlife policies and plans of the administrative federal bureaus, and thereby bringing about a better mutual understanding of the public values and problems involved." --Title page.

PEARSON, F.A. THE WORLD'S HUNGER. Cornell Univ. Press, 1945. 90 p. 389 P3137

"This book was written primarily for those interested in the world food problem. The authors make no special claims as authorities other than to appraise widely divergent views on the basis of the scanty information available." --Preface

PEARSON, HAYDN S. COUNTRY FLAVOR. New York, McGraw-Hill, 1945. 112 p.
 361.9 P312

"This is a book of farm and rural life essays. It portrays, in vivid word pictures, the good lessons that can be learned from the habits and traditions of life on the farm." --Foreword.

REEVES, FLOYD W. EDUCATION FOR RURAL AMERICA. Chicago, University of Chicago press, 1945. 213 p. 275 R235.

"In the summer of 1944, there was held at the University of Chicago a conference on -Education in rural communities. Educational leaders participated in this conference with the thought that to secure greater unity of action in the educational field would be to bring together in a single conference the leaders of a number of interested groups working for the common purposes of improving rural life through education, and developing improved rural-urban relationships. The outcome of the conference provided material for this volume which is centered around the theme of emerging educational problems." --Introduction.

ROWE, HENRY G. STARTING RIGHT WITH BEES, OR BEEKEEPER'S HAND BOOK OF BEES: 7th ed 1945. Medina, Ohio. A.I. Root Co., 104 p. 424 R73
